TOO LATE.

BY EMILY A. MAY.

'My dear,' said Mrs Weldon to her daughter Sophia, 'had you not better be getting ready for your music lesson? It is now half-past nine, and you have several squares to walk.'

'Oh! there is plenty of time,' answered Sophia, 'I can get ready in five minutes, and walk to Signor Toricelli's in five minutes more.'

'So you said on Monday, when you were too late. Indeed, I fear, Sophia, you are contracting a habit of procrastination which will be a fruitful cause of sorrow to you through life.—'Never put off till to-morrow what can be done to-day,' is an excellent proverb; but I would amend it by adding, 'and never delay a minute in doing what has to be done.' Do put down that novel, love, and go and attire yourself.'

Sophia reluctantly obeyed, and left the room. But when she reached her chamber, instead of getting her bonnet and shawl, she threw herself pettishly into a chair.

'I do wish ma,' she said, would not lecture one so. She is always talking about my being too late. One would think father was a bank clerk, she has such a regard for punctuality.—Now, for spite, I'll not go to Signor Toricelli's till too late.'

But when a few minutes had cooled her passion, Sophia felt ashamed of her conduct—for she was an impulsive rather than a bad girl—and began to attire herself, resolved to be at Signor Toricelli's in time. Her delay, however, had been fatal. Though she almost ran through the streets, she arrived too late. And the Signor, who made a point never to wait a minute, had gone out

'Sophy,' said her father to her a few days afterwards, 'there is nothing for me to do in town until Monday; so I have a notion of running into the country for the rest of the week. And, luckily, the steamboat is to make an excursion to-day, and will stop en route at Elmslee. This is a chance that won't occur again this season, to see your friends and the Woodleys. The boat starts at four. I shall have to return to the counting-room for an hour after dinner, but you can get ready and meet me at the boat. John will attend you down.'

'Very well,' said Sophia, delighted at the proposal, 'I will be there in time.'

She hastened up stairs to prepare herself, and, after packing her dresses, opened her little casket to select the jewels she should wear. She took up two bracelets of different patterns, tried each of them on, and held them in different lights, before she could make up her mind which to take. Then she was a long time in selecting three out of a dozen rings, the gifts of her fond parents and godmothers. In this situation the time slipped away so rapidly, that the clock was on the chime of four before she became aware of her idleness. It was too late, and she sat down and wept bitterly

For a fortnight the lesson did Sophia good, and she was a pattern of punctuality. But gradually her old habits revived, she became as careless as ever, and on every occasion was too late. Her mother reasoned with her in vain, and at length her father spoke seriously on the subject.

'Sophy,' said he one evening, several days after he had requested her to purchase a certain scarce fabric of summer ware for him which was in the market, but which she had delayed going for till it was sold, 'your want of punctuality is intolerable. Your mother and I, and indeed the whole family, are daily sufferers by it. If you do not correct the habit, it will be the cause of incalculable evil to you through life. Many a battle on which hung the fate of an empire, has been lost by some one being too late on the ground. Many a woman lost the affections of her husband, never to recover them, by being too late. I warn you my dear child, against the habit, for I see it growing stronger daily; and, unless you rally at once against it, you will find yourself unable to conquer it.'

Sophia burst into tears, for her father had never spoken to her thus before, and, rising, left the room, with a determination to profit by his advice. And again, for several days, she struggled to be punctual to her engagements: but now she found the effort so much harder than before, that she became discouraged, and, after several vain attempts to conquer, she relapsed into her old indifference, and became the slave of habit.

At eighteen Sophia was one of the most beautiful girls of her native city, and her hand was sought for by a crowd of admirers. Of these she selected one every way worthy of her. He was a young lawyer rapidly rising to eminence, for his legal attainments and eloquence were both of a superior order. He had long been the prize for which numerous of her friends had contended, and when Sophia found him at her feet, a natural thrill of pride could not be avoided.

But it was from no selfish vanity that she accepted him. His estimable qualities had deepened the impression which his fine person at first made on her, and she soon learned to love Walter Conrad with all the intensity of woman's first affection. She anticipated his slightest wish, and regulated her conduct accordingly; and her opinions were always moulded as she thought his would be framed, for Sophia was one of those trusting beings who give up all to the one they love, satisfied that he should be their exemplar in everything.

Conrad returned her love with equal fervency, but with more discrimination. As he became better acquainted with her, he saw many faults at which he grieved; but, being of a sanguine nature, he hoped that time and a desire to please him would induce her to conquer them. Nor was he wholly disappointed. Many of the slightest blemishes on her character disappeared under the kind culture of her lover; but there was one fault which Conrad found for a long time abortive to remove. It was the fatal habit of procrastination.

It is true that Sophia made many resolute attempts to conquer this habit; but her chains had been forged so strong, that she found the task of breaking them harder than ever. Her old weakness constantly returned to her, and, though she continued her struggle, they finally grew weaker. Unable or unwilling to persevere in the arduous undertaking, and conscious of her lover's disapprobation of the habit, she resorted to every means to conceal it from his eye; so that at length, Conrad began to hope that she was cured of a failing, as the slave of which he felt she could not continue to possess his respect and with him respect was necessary to love.

One evening Conrad called on her an hour after his usual time. It was a bitter winter night, and the snow was knee-deep in the streets, lying in drifts against the doors, where the wind had piled it.

'I am glad you have come,' said Sophia running to him to assist in taking off his cloak, 'for I was afraid something had happened to you.—Where have you been?'

'I have been, dearest,' he said, taking her hand and leading her to the sofa, which had been wheeled opposite the fire, 'to see a poor girl, once my laundress, who, I fear, is dying—and dying in the most abject poverty. She broke a blood vessel yesterday, and is in a very dangerous state; but with care she may yet live, the physician says. There was no fire in the bare room when I went there, and the snow, beating through the broken panes, had collected a pile at the foot of the bed. Oh, it was a miserable sight'—and, he placed his hand before his eyes. At length he looked up and resumed, 'Promise me you will go there to-morrow—for I said I would send one to see after all her wants, and you know it would be more delicate for you to aid her than me. Here is my purse—nay! I must be the giver in this case—only promise me to go early, for the poor thing might perish for want of necessary medicine and care. I sent for wood to warm the chamber, and got a poor neighbor to sit up with her to-night, but to-morrow she must have better help. Alas what misery exists in our city, and almost at our doors! Yet how little do we alleviate it.'

Sophia listened with tears to his recital, and made the required promise. The lovers continued for a while talking of the sufferer, and then gradually passed to pleasanter themes. In the indulgence of these we leave them.

The next morning the storm raged fiercer than ever. The wind howled along the streets, the casement shook, and the snow spun and hissed in the tempest, Sophia had not forgotten her promise, but, looking at her watch after breakfast, and finding the hour early, she concluded to wait a while for the subsidence of the storm. Setting down in her boudoir, she took up a new novel, and was soon immersed in its pages. Hour after hour passed away, and though she often thought of her promise, and looked to the window to see if the gale abated, yet the tempest raged so violently, the book was so fascinating, and she thought the probability of any harm ensuing from her delay so small, that, with her usual easy procrastination, she concluded to wait a little while longer, and so continued reading.

At last two o'clock came, and the storm abated. The novel, too, was finished. Sophia ordered the carriage, and with some misgivings set forth. She had some difficulty in finding the miserable hovel her lover had directed her.

As she entered the steps, she thought she heard voices, and a sudden fear came over her, for there were sorrow and indignation in the speakers, and among them she fancied she recognised her lover's. Filled with remorse, she tottered up to the door, and, pushing it open, she saw a scene that she never forgot.

On the humble pallet lay a pale and beautiful face, whose icy look of repose too plainly evinced that the countenance was that of a corpse. By the bedside stood an aged physician, sorrow and indignation alternating in his face as he gazed on the dead. Near him was a woman meanly attired, with her apron up to her eye, and weeping freely. The other member of the group was Sophia's lover, standing with folded arms and a stern brow, silently regarding the corpse.

'And you tell me,' said the physician, turning slightly to Conrad, just as Sophia reached the door, 'that she promised to come here early and procure the medicine and appliances I ordered last night, this poor woman tells me she has not been here. God help us! had she come, the sufferer's life might have been saved.'

'Yes, your honor,' sobbed the female. 'I watched for her, hour after hour, but I dared not leave the bedside; and, O! if I could and had the money, or even knew what you ordered, I'd have gone on my knews and begged it; the poor girl suffered so. But no one came until my little boy returned from school, when I sent him to find this gentleman who, by good luck, was at home. But when you arrived, she was dead.'

At this instance Conrad looked up and caught sight of Sophia, who stood transfixed with horror at the consequences of her misconduct. His exclamation attracted every eye in the same direction. As if moved by some uncontrollable impulse, he started forward, and, seizing Sophia's arm, dragged her sternly to the bed side.

'Woman, look at your work' he said, 'you have murdered her by being too late.'

Sophia, shuddering at the pale and seemingly reproachful face of the corpse, turned away; but not daring to look into her angry lover's face, sought consolation in those of his companions. But each regarded her with the same averted look. The scene was too much for her. She fainted.

When she recovered, she was lying in her own chamber with her parents sadly watching over her. Their looks seemed to imply that they had heard all—as indeed they had.

For several days Sophia hoped that her lover would relent from his determination as expressed in a note to her parents, never to visit her again. But she hoped in vain. He adhered to the language of that terrible letter. He could not, he said, unite his fate to one who had trifled with a human life by her criminal procrastination. Her fault he know to be incurable, though he had long hoped otherwise.

And fearful as this lesson was, Conrad was right. Habits, when they have become a second nature, can rarely, if ever, be eradicated; and Sophia continued to her dying day to procrastinate till it was TOO LATE.

☞ We have received from our Representative, Hon. Luther Severance, a copy of a speech delivered in the House of Representatives, by Hon. Mr Stewart, of Penn, in defence of the Tariff and Distribution. It is an able argument, addressed to the common sense of the House and the country, and ably fortified by facts.

We make an extract:

"The great and leading objection to the protective policy is, that the duties are added to the price, and paid by the consumers. This objection lies at the foundation of the opposition to this policy; and, if unfounded, this opposition ought to cease. The duty is added to the price, this is the theory. Now, sir, how is the fact, what says experience? All experience proves that this objection has no existence, save in the imaginations of those who make it.

Now, sir, I lay it down as a general proposition, that there never was a high protective duty imposed upon any article, from the foundation of this Government to the present day, the price of which has not been in the end reduced—greatly reduced—in many instances to one-half, one-third, and one-fourth of what it had been before these protective duties were imposed. This, sir, may seem to gentlemen on the other side to be a strong declaration; but I make it deliberately, with a full conviction of its truth, and I challenge gentlemen to disprove it—I defy them to point out a single instance to the contrary. Let them examine, and they will find invariably that wherever the duties have been highest, the prices have ultimately come down the lowest and for a very obvious reason—high duties promote competition, and competition never fails to bring down prices. This effect is invariable and universal; but unfortunately the duties always run up as the prices run down; hence the frightful lists of duties exhibited by the Com. of Ways & Means, amounting to 200, 300, and 400 per cent. When first imposed these duties were but 30 or 40 per cent.; but now, owing to the reduction of prices, they have run up to 200 or 300 per cent. By way of illustration take the article of glass, on which a duty of $4 a box was imposed at a time when glass cost $12; this was then a duty of 33 per cent, but now when home competition, induced by this protective duty, has brought down the price to $2 a box, the duty, owing to this reduction of price, is 200 per cent. instead of 33: the same is true of many other articles on which the duty, when imposed, did not exceed 20 or 30 per cent, but now, owing to reduction of price produced by home competition, they amount to 2 or 300 per cent. When four cents per pound duty was put on cut nails, the price was twelve cents per pound, and the duty, of course, was 33 per cent.; but now, when the effect of this protective duty has been to reduce the price of nails from 12 to 3 cents per pound, the duty is increased to 100 per cent, this is equally true of shoes, rods, wood screws, &c.—Again eight cents a yard duty was imposed on coarse cottons when imported at 20 cents, being a duty of 40 per cent, but now, when the price has come down to five cents per yard, the duty goes up to 160 per cent.

Sir, I could go on and enumerate more than twenty such instances where the duties, though moderate when imposed, now actually exceed the price of the article yet we are told that in all cases the duty is added to the price and paid by the consumer! That is, that the consumer pays $4 a box duty on glass that he buys for $2, 4 cents a pound on nails that he buys for 3; and 8 cents a yard on coarse cotton goods that he buys for 5. Such are the absurdities into which these stale anti-tariff theories involve their votaries; but suppose what they allege were true in point of fact, and that the duty is really added to the price, the cost of cotton goods being 20 cents when the duty of 8 cents was imposed, add the duty, the price would be, of course, 28 cents a yard, and the duty only 28 per cent. instead of 160 as stated by the committee; hence, if you raise the price five fold, then the duty is quite reasonable, and there will be no objection whatever to its payment. Let the manufacturer, then, run up his price from 5 to 25 cents a yard, and he at once silences all the objections of the Committee of Ways and Means, as this would fix the duty at 30 per cent., just what they want it. But suppose the manufacturer were to reduce his price to one cent a yard, then the duty, being 8 cents, would be 800 per cent. Horrid oppression! who would submit to pay a duty of 800 per cent.? Who could then refuse to go with the Committee of Ways and Means for reducing such enormous duties?"

The Land Revenue.

The ever changing policy of the locofoco party is well illustrated in the case of the land revenue. It was once the earnest desire of that party to have the land revenue apportioned among the several States. General Jackson advocated it in his messages, and several State Legislatures passed resolutions favoring the project. It was then 'federal doctrine' to advocate the expenditure of money by the Genaral Government for improving the navigation of rivers and according to 'democratic principles' to distribute the revenue among the States; while now, Kendall's Expositor, the Washington Globe, and other locofoco organs go for having the money expended for improving the navigation of rivers, as the genuine 'democratic principles,' and oppose distribution as the essence of 'federalism!'

The Legislature of Maine in 1827 passed resolves in favor of the distribution of the revenue among the several States. The Eastern Argus then declared itself of opinion that the effect of distribution would be not only to give to the States a large fund to be applied to the most useful and beneficent purposes, but do more than any one measure, which has been adopted by the government, to establish and perpetuate a prudent and economical administration of the finances of the country. At the same time, the Argus continued, it will take from the government of the Union a vast amount of patronage which may be applied to the most unwarrantable and pernicious purposes. And the Argus was sure the measure would ultimately prevail, and the people approve it the more they understood it.

The Argus was then the leading organ of the 'democracy,' and in perfect contrast to the views then presented the 'democracy' in the last Legislature, voted against receiving seventeen thousand dollars of the land revenue, appropriated for the benefit of the State, fearing as they say that it would corrupt the State and the people! In 1827 the statement was that revenue expended by the general government would give patronage which might be applied to pernicious purposes; while in 1844 the pretence is that the State and people will be corrupted by it! In 1827 the Argus said that the distribution would only be opposed by those who wish to see the government of the Union a government of imposing splendor and magnificence, while in 1844 this same party of which the Argus was the organ oppose distribution! Thus locofocoism 'wheels about and turns about' having no steadfast political principles and as Mr. Calhoun once said, 'is kept together by the cohesive power of public plunder.'

☞ The weather since the arrival of April has been uncommonly bright and bland. The mornings are splendid and the songs of the birds make a merry chorus in our groves. The ice has disappeared from the stream and the river ice is rapidly weakening and will soon disappear. The sound of the carpenter's hammer has become familiar—Painters are busily engaged—the sound of the trowel and the cry of 'mort' will soon be heard and business go on briskly and prosperously. Farmers are preparing for spring work and all are expecting a forward and a fruitful season.

The beauty and prospects of the opening season demand of all capable of performing labor to seek out some useful employment and to eat their bread by the sweat of the brow. Health and happiness depend in no small degree upon active employment and steady occupation, and to these our young men should apply themselves as the choicest blessings of life. By active industry and prudent economy our young men may acquire a competence, maintain a family respectably, and exert a good influence in the community. There is something for every man to do, and he is a drone in the hive and a hindrance to the progress of society who falters and lazily hangs upon the wheels.

☞ The Gazette, after sundry pushings, has at length, daintily admitted that the Whigs of Connecticut, at the recent State election have succeeded in changing the administration of that State from the loco to the Whig policy and measures. But this change should not have been announced in the Whig papers in cheering capitals, oh! no; it was very grievous to the Gazette! And then too, the Gazette must resort to the eloquence of its italic type to give force to its intended sarcasm, which we call calumny, that the whigs contended for the spoils. Is the Gazette so purblind, so dead to the great interests of the country, and of the north too, as not to see any difference between having a Senator in the U. S. Congress in favor of a protective tariff to one opposed to it—in favor of the government discharging its great duties to the public, in fostering industry, regulating the currency and helping the prosperity of the people, to one fiercely bent on the destruction of these? Can it see no difference between having a U. S. Senator who governs for the people, and one who governs by means of the people? If it cannot, then, we remark, that it is incapable of judging of the motives of the whigs in their efforts to save our country from locofoco rule and to establish whig measures by the election of whig men.

☞ In reference to the remarks of our correspondent "A Mechanic" who, although a 'Liberty' man has given the reasons why he shall vote for Henry Clay for President, the Gazette interposes a doubt as to his being a Liberty man. We reply that the Gazette itself owes its existence to that man—for it he ran hazzards and made sacrifices, but while feeling a deep and abiding interest for the slaves he is not unmindful of the general welfare of the country. He sees that the evils of the country would be increased by the destruction of the protective policy, and his labors has ~~been directed~~ to lessen and not augment them, and with this view while nothing will be gained to the cause of the slave in the election of Mr. Van Buren, much will be lost to the free people, he therefore cannot throw his vote against Henry Clay, in whom are many noble traits of character, and from whose election much good will accrue, especially as by so doing he indirectly favors the election of Van Buren.

☞ The New York Tribune, says, it is quite certain now that John Tyler has definitely determined to stand as a candidate for President on independent grounds; that a Convention of his friends will assemble in Baltimore on the 27th of May and formally present him for office; that he will run as the open avowed advocate of terminating directly the Joint Occupation of Oregon and taking Military and Judicial possession of that region; also, of Annexing Texas to the Union, and on such grounds appeal to the People for support.

☞ Some visiter on Saturday last, probably through mistake, took our pen knife, having four blades, from our office table. Our pens are worn up so that our penmanship appears like hen tracks in mud, and we really need the use of our knife again. Will our friends examine their pockets, as the lost treasure undoubtedly is concealed in honest pockets.

☞ There will be a regular meeting of the Mechanic Association at their Hall this evening. At the request of the Association Mr. J. S. Sayward will repeat a lecture recently delivered by him at Bucksport before the Mechanic Association in that town.

Members with their families and friends are invited to attend. This lecture will conclude the course for the present season.

Fifth Congressional District.

The Belfast Signal says, it has returns from 21 of the 25 towns in Waldo County, belonging to the Fifth Congressional District, and from 11 towns in Somerset County. The vote is, for Hutchinson 1383, White 1790, Smart 711, True 388, Abolition and scattering, 502. Whole number 4774. Mr. White falls short 1194 votes thus far of an election, which will probably be increased to 1500 by the towns to come in.

☞ There seems to be much conflicting testimony regarding the health and the whereabouts of Senator Niles of Connecticut. Some papers say he is hopelessly insane, others that he has recovered except a slight rheumatism, others that he has gone on to Washington to take his seat, while others, again, insist upon it, that he is confined in a grated room at the Insane Hospital at Utica.

☞ Benjamin Kingsbury, Jr. Esq. has retired from the editorial duties of the Portland Daily American, and transferred all his interest in the establishment to Gen. Todd. Mr. K. was a good natured, agreeable editor, and in his retirement we wish him personally a multitude of blessings.

☞ The Whigs of Searsmont in Waldo county have organized a Clay Club in that town, and have invited all political parties to attend their meetings and take part in the discussions. The following are the officers:

H. Hazeltine, President; Ezra Sanborn, John Arnold, Vice Presidents; Miles S. Cobb, Treasurer; William Plaisted, Corresponding Secretary; Hiram Wing, Recording Secretary.

Directors—Benj. Lecain, Leonard Ordway, Nelson Woodcock, Ward Maxey, Charles Hopkins.

☞ The editor of the Portland Express generally gives good advice, and he never hit the nail on the head any better than in the following:

"Always look happy. No matter if you have met with the rubbers, don't show it. A merry heart, or one that appears so, is worth a fortune, in any state of the market."

The License Law.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

DEAR SIR: As it is not generally understood that there was an alteration of the License law by the last legislature, I will thank you to publish the following, that the public may be advised as to how the law stands at the present time:—

An Act explanatory of the thirty-sixth chapter of the Revised Statutes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled, as follows:—From and after the passage of this act, the thirty-sixth chapter of the Revised Statutes shall be construed, that the selectmen, treasurer and clerk of any town, at any meeting notified and called pursuant to the provisions of said thirty-sixth chapter, and shall have power to license under their hands, any person or persons to be inn-holders or common victuallers in said town, restricting and prohibiting the said person or persons from selling wine, brandy, rum, or any strong liquors, by retail, or in a less quantity than twenty-eight gallons, and that delivered and carried away all at one time. [Approved Feb. 15, 1844.]

Heretofore, members of licensing boards have been somewhat embarrassed in regard to the manner in which they should act when application has been made by hotel-keepers for licenses. The above act will relieve them from this embarrassment, but whether in all cases it will relieve them from the inclination to grant licenses for the sale of liquors is somewhat questionable The act will also relieve hotel keepers of the mortification of taking a license. Instead of being constrained to say that, by their licenses, they feel under a just legal obligation to put the cup to their neighbors' lips, they can hereafter reply to the taunts of their enemies, that they are under a legal obligation to withhold it.

Can there be a doubt that these gentlemen—the keepers of hotels—will greatly rejoice that they are now under no obligation to take a license to make their houses drunkeries, to deal out to their customers, with the staff of life, the besom of death? Our friends of the Bangor House, Exchange, Merchants' Exchange, Franklin House, &c. will, unquestionably, when they turn out in the morning and in at night, remember with thankfulness the above merciful act of the last legislature, which releases them from the performance of a painful duty, and places the responsibility of making rumselling legal—not moral, that it never was—upon the licensing boards.

GRATIS DICTUM.

Napoleon once said to some boys in a school he visited—"My lads, every hour of lost time is a chance for future misfortune."

'Mother, mother, does money have the rheumatis?'

'Why no, my child.'

'Well, mother, I see by this newspaper that money is easier; and dad is always easier after he has had the rheumatis.'

'Get along to school—it's nine o'clock this minute.'

New York Election.

The Journal of Commerce of Tuesday says, the election goes on with spirit, and thus far without disturbance. A great vote will be polled, and we shall be disappointed if the American Republicans do not carry the city. This impression is confirmed by what we hear from several of the Wards.

P. S. There has been a disturbance at the poll of the third district of the Sixteenth Ward, corner 3d Avenue and 34th street. The Irish are said to have taken possession of the ballot boxes! There was some fighting, and we have not heard the end of the matter, but presume it was nothing very serious.

From Mexico.

Latest accounts from Mexico, received at N. Orleans state that Gen. Santa Anna had released all the Texan prisoners at Perote, and that they would be at Vera Cruz in a day or two.

In order to put a complete stop to smuggling goods into Mexico, through Texas, Santa Anna has directed that all articles taken or captured be divided among the captors, be they officers of the government or private citizens.

☞ Tyler's son Bobby has been on a visit to New York city, and it is stated in the True Sun that several official changes will take place in consequence. Bob is fixing for the "old critter," to be run for the presidency.

Four Hundred Slaves to be Shot.

Capt. Clarke, of schr. Patoxet, arrived] in New York recently from Matanzas, and states that four hundred slaves connected with the late conspiracy were in irons, and would be shot in a few days. One of them had poisoned a whole family in Matanzas Capt. C. left on the 25th ult.

Mr. Clay arrived at Charleston, S. C on the 5th inst., and was received in a manner becoming his high rank.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 8th.

The sesion in the House of Representatives this morning was very brief.

Mr Weller announced the death of Mr Moore. The usual resolutions were offered and adopted, and the Senate thus made acquainted with the action of the House.

In the Senate,—The Sergeant at Arms announced a Message "from the House of Representatives" The resolutions were read, when Mr Tappan rose and responded to them.

The Senate then passed the usual resolutions of respect and condolence, and adjourned until tomorrow.

Mr Niles did not attempt to take his place in the Senate to-day, and is said to be more ill than when he arrived.

SAWS.

PATENT GROUND CAST-STEEL MI CIRCULAR, and × CUT SAWS, from celebrated Works of "HOE & CO." New Y These Saws are made of SANDERSON BRO ERS & CO., BEST REFINED CAST STEEL, are of superior workmanship, as well as qualit will be seen by the following notice from a P delphia Paper.

"The comparative value of the Saws manu ured by the Messrs. Hoe & Co. may perhap more duly appreciated by those who understan use of them, (after stating that they are ma Sanderson Brothers & Co. best Cast Steel, an improved process of tempering, and cut by chinery with Mathematical precision) by descr the main principle, of difference in grinding finishing, between the usual mode, and the pl Mr. Hoe, by which these are ground. The fi very easily described, because it is by a pr with which all are familiar; merely that of ing the Saw upon a grindstone, by hand, and p ing it backward and forward until it is ground b and so nearly true, measuring with the eye, a be thought will make it answer its purposes. practiced eye, and skillful hand will, in this ca course, put a truer finish to the article than unskilful, but any Mechanic can see that th actness of mechanical perfection can never b tained in this mode by the longest practice, ever skillful.

On the other hand, Mr. Hoe's plan, by w these Saws are ground, consists of what we lieve is termed a "lap," formed of a large, ma leaden wheel, with its face covered with E and strongly Iron bound, to prevent its fly pieces from the centrifugal force of its high rapid motion, with a planed iron plate emb upon a carriage passing forward and backwa neath the wheel. On this plate of the car the rough saw plate is placed, where it is, by of gearing, graduated by raising or loweri suit the required amount of cutting or grinding thus run through under the wheel. which is mense weight and pressure, and is whirled such almost inconceivable velocity of motion it appears, by both operation and sound, to no scrape it down in a moment, with a perfect bla fire flying off in a tangent from the wheel it is in contact with the Saw plate, but to co the business of grinding to a perfect trueness single scrape on each side of the plate. S this plan of rendering mechanically perfec straight Saw.

The Circular Saw is ground by a Machin different arrangements, but similar in princip dering them equally perfect."

$25 REWARD.
FOUND in the streets of the city of Bangor on or about the 20th March a man who appears to be non compos mentis. He is incapable of stating any thing intelligibly respecting his name, connections, or residence; sometimes calling himself "Charles Hunt" at other times "Champion Hunt," and says he "lived on the plain with cozen Morrill in Norwich." He is about five feet eight inches high, has light blue eyes, chesnut brown hair, and light complexion. His age is probably about 24 years. His chest is somewhat depressed and he has scars upon his hands as tho' he had used a knife, and his hands have the appearance of his having been accustomed to some labor. He had on when found a snug fur cap without visor and a black frock coat, much worn, of home made cloth, and dark pantaloons.

It is believed that some person must have brought this man into the city, and left him to perish or be provided for by the city. Information is now sought as to where the man belongs or has been living, and a handsome reward is offered for such information as will lead to the conviction of the person who abandoned this man, at this inclement season of the year to the perils of exposure in this city. He is now lodged in the Alms House.

Any person who can give information to the Overseers of the Poor of Bangor, respecting this man or the manner of his reaching this city will confer a favor, and if the information thus given shall lead to the conviction of any person for this crime against law and humanity, a reward of twenty-five dollars shall be paid.

DR. TAYLOR'S BALSAM OF LIVERWORT.
PRICE REDUCED.

DR. TAYLOR'S Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, New York—for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Catarrhs, Asthma, Soreness of the Chest, Pain in the side and Breast, raising of Blood, Liver complaint, Bronchitis, and all those affections of Throat and Lungs which are a source of so much suffering and unarrested, so often terminate in Consumption—this remedy is highly and justly distinguished. It is purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its effects upon the system, and can be taken in the most delicate cases, with safety as well as utility. Physicians, aware of its medicinal properties, and witnessing its effects even in extreme and in some instances apparently almost hopeless cases, often prescribe it in their practice, both as a palliative and a remedy, and with the Medical Faculty generally it has met with great approbation.

CONSUMPTION.—The following remarks were taken from the last number of the Medical Magazine:

"The surprising effect produced by the genuine Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, made at 375 Bowery, in consumptive cases, cannot fail exciting a deep and thrilling interest throughout the world. We have so long considered this disease (consumption) incurable, that it is difficult to credit our senses when we see persons, evidently consumptive, restored to health. Yet it is a fact of daily occurrence"

Certificates from the highest and most respectable sources, or persons who have been either greatly relieved by it, or entirely recovered from affections of the Lungs and Liver, could be furnished in abundance, but we insert only the following

CERTIFICATE.

Liver Complaint and General Dibility. I was given up by two physicians, and told to prepare for death. I was so weak I could not raise my hand to my head. I was in this low state, when a friend sent me a bottle of Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, and before I had used up the bottle, I was able to sit up in bed. By the further use I have completely regained my health.

GEO WELLS, 23 John-st

TO THE OLD AND YOUNG.
HO! YE RED HEADS AND GREY!
PHENOMENON IN CHEMISTRY
EAST INDIA HAIR DYE.

Colors the Hair, and will not the Skin

THIS Dye is in form of a powder, which in plain matter of fact may be applied to the hair over night, the first night turning the lightest RED or GREY HAIR to a dark brown, and by repeating a second or third night to a bright jet black. Any person may, therefore, with the least possible trouble, keep his hair any dark shade or a perfect black with a positive assurance that the powder, if applied to the skin, will not color it. By an occasional application, a person [illegible] be known to have a grey hair. [illegible] with the article. There is no color [illegible] this statement, as one can easily test.

These facts are warranted by the gentleman who manufactures it, who is the celebrated Chemist, DR. COMSTOCK, author of Comstock's Chemistry, Philosophy, and other works, and school Books, well known and widely celebrated by the public.

PATENT MILL WHEELS.

THE Subscriber having for a long time given his attention to the construction and operation of Water Wheels, has finally succeeded in the invention of two kinds of Wheels for which he has received Letters Patent from the Government of the United States.

These Wheels are simple in their construction, cheap and durable, are easily put in operation, and are not liable like most other wheels to get out of order, they are not obstructed by back water, when the head is not diminished thereby; and the same power and speed is obtained, with about one half the quantity of water usually applied to wheels now in general use.

A great number of these Wheels are now in operation and give in all cases entire satisfaction; and for further information respecting them the following gentlemen are referred to, all of whom have some of said wheels in operation: Jacob Drummond, James B. Fiske, Amos Davis and Leonard March, Esqrs., Messrs. Fiske & Norcross, Foster & Gilman, S. P. & H. Strickland, W. T. & H. Peirce & Co. Bangor; Hon J S. Little, Portland; Hon. John Otis, Hallowell; F. A. Butman, Esquire, Dixmont; Robert Treat Geo. A. Peirce, Esquires, Frankfort; Daniel Dennett, Esq Milo; Col. Henry Orne, Milton; Messrs. Fiske & Bridge, Milford; Ira Wadleigh, Esq. Oldtown: Capt. R. Fittz, Dedham; John Black and John M. Hale, Esqrs. Ellsworth;—Messrs. A. Campbell & Co. Cherryfield; Daniel Harwood, Esq. Machias; Levi L. Lowell, Calais

The above wheels are manufactured and for sale at the Iron Foundries of MESSRS. HINCKLEY & EGERY and FRANKLIN MUZZY & Co in this city, who are furnished with a great variety of patterns, so that Wheels of any particular description, or adapted to any given head of water, can be furnished at short notice. NEW PRINCIPLES OF PURGATION.
CORNARO'S
Purifying and Preserving PILLS.

THE American public has for a long time been the victim of a false and dangerous system of medicine founded on the practice of LONG CONTINUED AND UNRELIEVED PURGATION. The evils of this old system are of the most widespread and alarming character. They have reached through every vein and artery of our nation.—In every city, and village, and hamlet—in every State and Territory of our vast Republic, will be found those who have suffered, or who are still suffering from the injurious effects of this old system, of whose practical utility the disease, decay, and utter prostration of those who test it furnish the most condemning proofs!

COMMON DRASTIC PURGATION

Scours out the system by the most improper and violent means, and then leave it, weak, low, feeble debilitated, to regain its strength as best it may.—Sometimes the consequences of this old Purgative practice are worse than mere Debility. Inflammation of the Bowels, Slow Fever, Bloody Piles, and other horrible disorders are produced, simply from the want of some enlivening and preserving power in the medicine employed. Sometimes the digestive organs are deeply and permanently injured by this coarse and unphilosophical practice, leaving the patient AN INVALID FOR LIFE.

The alarming evils and absurdities of the old system of Purgation, have led to the introduction of a new Life-giving Medicine, called CORNARO'S PURIFYING AND PRESERVING PILLS, which are established on this new and only true principle of Purgation, viz:

NO PURGATION WITHOUT IMMEDIATE RESTORATION.

The use of this admirable Purgative remedy strikes a death blow to that abominable system, which by continually evacuating the bowels without any conservative or saving power, so dreadfully and fearfully prostrates and injures the unhappy patient. These Purifying and Preserving Pills are believed to constitute the perfection of medicine, being a UNIVERSAL VEGETABLE PURGATIVE, containing two great remedies combined viz: One remedy to PURIFY FROM CORRUPTION, and another to PRESERVE FROM INJURY AND DECAY.

And for the purpose of attaining the highest degree of purity in the preparation of these Pills, Dr Bradlee has, at a vast expenditure of time and money, invented and patented at Washington, a chemical and philosophical apparatus for distilling and refining vegetable extracts, called

THE SEVEN-FOLD FURNACE,

A powerful and novel machine—having Seven Fires and Seven Alembics, with distilling, condensing, and evaporating fixtures of a new and ingenious contrivance, capable of obtaining more than seven times the ordinary purity of any vegetable extract heretofore used in compounding medicine. The Baliamic and Preserving power of these Pills is also, by this invention, highly purified and refined, and so mingled with the operative medicine, that it repairs all the injuries created by Purgation as soon as they are caused, and strongly fortifies the system against future corruption and decay.

Let the public be no longer deceived by the advertisements of the "one remedy" doctors, who show their entire ignorance of the organic laws of the human system by supposing that a medicine which purges merely, without renovating or preserving, can be a perfect remedy. For it is a fixed and immutable law of our being that there should be, in no case, Purgation without immediate Restoration; and hence it follows, and is proved to demonstration, that all Purgatives which DO NOT possess a saving and preserving power, are injurious and injurious only—and possess NOT ONE REDEEMING QUALITY.

The whole theory of common drastic Purgation is based upon unnatural and absurd laws, and they who follow it fall victims to their own folly, and too late repent their temerity.

☞BEWARE OF UNRELIEVED PURGATION! Purge and Preserve, or do not attempt to Purge at all.

HAMILTON, Feb. 15, 1840.

Dr. D. Jayne---Dear Sir: I cannot say my hair is stored, but I can say that it appears to be in as rapi process of restoration as could reasonably be expecte I had not finished the first bottle, before a decid change was manifest over the bald part of the head, which it was applied. A new growth of fine glo hair, much like that of an infant, appeared, and h continued to increase, and I have had it cut two or thr times. I have recently commenced upon the third bo tle, but have been a good deal irregular in the use the Tonic from the first, and from this cause I apprehe the effect is at present less than it otherwise wo have been.

I began the use of the Tonic with little or no fai that it would ever be successful on my head, though felt entire confidence in your statements of what it h done for others; and I was as much surprised as d lighted when I saw the effect. You recollect the a pearance of my head when in your office. I assure y the hair has been nearly, if not quite, an inch long the times I have had it cut, on those parts which we nearly destitute of any when you saw me. It was, how ever, very fine, though quite thick. I am flushed wi sanguine hopes of final success, in the diligent use your Tonic, which, amidst all the hair humbugs whi have been advertised in the papers, I am constrained believe is what it claims to be, and that it will ma the hair grow, and no mistake, at least on some head
